2014 will see the centenary of WW1 with huge interest in the men and women who served in the “War to end all wars”. For over a decade, SANDRA CONEY has been researching the bushmen on the WW1 Roll of Honour on Lion Rock, Piha.

Auckland Council is encouraging families, local communities, schools and RSAs to research their Rolls of Honour to learn about and record the life stories of the people who served in NZ and overseas. The seminar will cover how to get started, where to find further information and what to do with it once it has been collected.

Sandra Coney chairs the Council's WW1 Political Steering Group. This event is part of the Auckland Heritage Festival.

While the seminar is free, it is essential to book, as places are limited. Book by emailing elaine.stephenson@aucklandcouncil.govt.nz or phone 3010101 and ask for Elaine.
